

Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments ix

- 1 Introduction | Break a Leg! | 1
JEANETTE R. MALKIN
- 2 Reflections on Theatricality, Identity, and the Modern Jewish Experience | 21
STEVEN E. ASCHHEIM
- 3 How “Jewish” Was Theatre in Imperial Berlin? | 39
PETER JELAVICH
- 4 Stagestruck | Jewish Attitudes to the Theatre in Wilhelmine Germany | 59
ANAT FEINBERG
- 5 Yiddish Theatre and Its Impact on the German and Austrian Stage | 77
DELPHINE BECHTEL
- 6 German and Jewish “Theatromania” | Theodor Lessing’s Theater-Seele between Goethe and Kafka | 99
BERNHARD GREINER
- 7 Arnold Zweig and the Critics | Reconsidering the Jewish “Contribution” to German Theatre | 116
PETER W. MARX

- 8 Jewish Cabaret Artists before 1933 | 132
HANS-PETER BAYERDÖRFER
- 9 Transforming in Public | Jewish Actors on the German
Expressionist Stage | 151
JEANETTE R. MALKIN
- 10 The Shaping of the Ostjude | Alexander Granach and Shimon
Finkel in Berlin | 174
SHELLY ZER-ZION
- 11 Max Reinhardt between Yiddish Theatre and the Salzburg
Festival | 197
LISA SILVERMAN
- 12 Theatre as Festive Play | Max Reinhardt's Productions
of The Merchant of Venice | 219
ERIKA FISCHER-LICHTE
- 13 The Unknown Leopold Jessner | German Theatre and
Jewish Identity | 232
ANAT FEINBERG
- 14 Epilogue | 261
FREDDIE ROKEM
- Works Cited* | 269
Contributors | 291
Index | 295