

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction 1

William J. Devlin and Shai Biderman

Part 1. The World of David Lynch

“The Owls Are Not What They Seem”: The Logic of Lynch’s World 7

Robert Arp and Patricia Brace

Intuition and Investigation into Another Place: The Epistemological Role of Dreaming in Twin Peaks and Beyond 25

Simon Riches

The Horrors of Life’s Hidden Mysteries: Blue Velvet 45

Sander H. Lee

The Thing about David Lynch: Enjoying the Lynchian World 61

Russell Manning

The World as Illusion: Rediscovering Mulholland Dr. and Lost Highway through Indian Philosophy 77

Ronie Parciack

Part 2. Selfhood and Subjectivity: The Existential Drive toward Self-Understanding

All Roads Lead to the Self: Zen Buddhism and David Lynch’s Lost Highway 95

Mark Walling

City of Dreams: Bad Faith in Mulholland Dr. 113

Jennifer McMahon

Constellations of the Flesh: The Embodied Self in The Straight Story and The Elephant Man 127

Tal Correm

David Lynch’s Road Films: Individuality and Personal Freedom? 143

Richard Gaughran

Lynch’s Zarathustra: The Straight Story 159

Shai Frogel

Part 3. The Self Confronts the World: Issues in Ethics, Society, and Religion

“There’s a Sort of Evil Out There”: Emersonian Transcendentalism in Twin Peaks 175

Scott Hamilton Suter

“In Heaven Everything Is Fine”: Erasing Traditional Morality 189

Jason Southworth

The Monster Within: Alienation and Social Conformity in The Elephant Man 207

Shai Biderman and Assaf Tabeka

Prophecies, Experience, and Proof: Philosophy of Religion in Dune 225

William J. Devlin

Contributors 239

Index 243